

GAJAN HOLSTEIN

COMPLETE DISPERSAL

10:30AM

MARCH 27TH 2026

Welcome to our complete dispersal. It's hard to believe that April morning of 1985 is almost 41 years ago. I'm very thankful for my wife, children and grandchildren who have helped and supported me all these years. A farm is one of the best places to raise a family.

I am thankful to my dad, Carl, for giving me an appreciation for good cows and foundation for my herd.

Thankful to the Lord for his many blessings through the years realizing that "the cattle upon the thousand hills" are His.
Psalm 50:10

Thanks for your interest in our cattle, wishing you much success with any purchases.

Galen

The Little Miracle

I grasped the calf by its fore legs and pulled it up to its mother's head. The cow was stretched out on her side, her head extended wearily along the rough floor. Her ribs heaved, her eyes were almost closed; she looked past caring about anything. Then she felt the calf's body against her face and there was a transformation; her eyes opened wide and her muzzle began a snuffling exploration of the new object. Her interest grew with every sniff and she struggled on to her chest. Then she began to lick methodically. Nature provides the perfect stimulant message for a time like this and the little creature arched her back as the coarse papillae on the tongue dragged along her skin. Within a minute she was shaking her head and trying to sit up.

I grinned. This was the bit I liked. The little miracle. I felt it was something that would never grow stale no matter how often I saw it.

~James Herriot~
